BRIAN CURVIS ☆

Coming from a great Welsh boxing family, Brian Curvis has been trained for the ring since he was eight years old, so it was no great surprise when he became welter-weight king of Britain and the Empire by cracking such tough nuts as Wally Swift, and rugged Australian George Barnes. Brian is at his best in attack. His flashing fists rip through his opponents' guard almost at will, because of his fantastic speed. This speed has taken Brian to the top in British boxing, and it looks like keeping him there for a long time yet.
